Gardner Wants 8,000 Enlisted

(From the Tribute Bureau.)

Washington, Jan. 2.—A bill to increase the strength of the coast artillery, which General Weaver, chief of this branch of the service, said was short of men, was introduced in the House to-day by Representative Augustus P. Gardner, of Massachusetts. Mr. Gardner preposes to add approximately 8,000 enlisted men to the coast artillery corps, and he also provides for the addition of the requisite numartillery corps, and he also provides for the addition of the requisite num-ing contest, covering more kinds of fish than Davy Jones ever heard of, it was a great year for fishermen. The fish, on the other hand, were less pleased than they might have been.
